

APS School Reopening Parent Survey 2020

Dr. Richard Bowman
Chief Information and Strategy Officer
Albuquerque Public Schools

8/19/2020

Background

- To better understand the current sentiment of the Albuquerque Public Schools community around in-person learning, the APS Strategic Analysis & Program Research (SAPR) department sent a brief survey to the email addresses on file of all 59,041 parents of current and formerly enrolled APS non-charter school students.
- The survey was opened on August 15, 2020.
- A web link to the survey was posted on the district's website on August 17, 2020.
- By the reporting time, 5:00pm, August 18, 13,811 families (23%) responded, with an additional 3,174 responses via the web link.

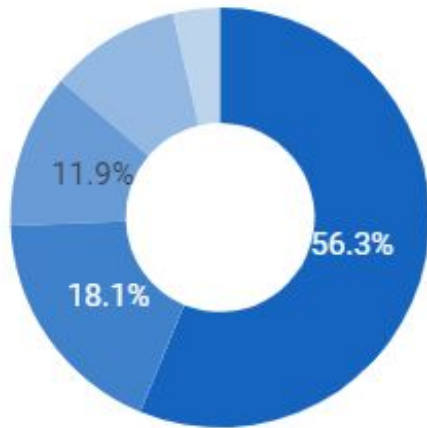

Opening Prompt

- Beginning Tuesday, Sept. 8, APS elementary school students are slated to go to their school four days a week on an every-other-week rotation. Students at school will be required to follow safety measures including social distancing and wearing masks. Students who aren't at school will take part in online and distance learning. Middle school students and then high school students will be added to this hybrid schedule that combines in-school and online learning later in the semester.

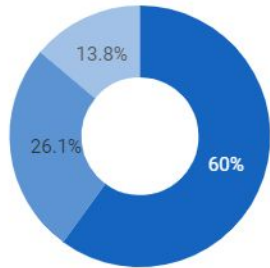

Parents: Uncomfortable with returning to school buildings

- Very uncomfortable
- Somewhat uncomfortable
- Very comfortable
- Somewhat comfortable
- Neither uncomfortable nor comfortable

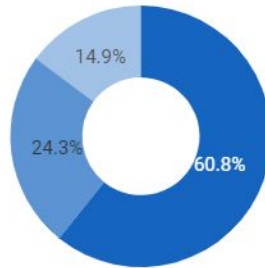

Level of Comfort with Child Returning to School Building

Parents: Concerned about health

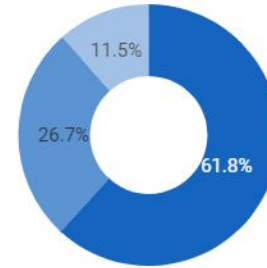

- Extremely concerned
- Somewhat concerned
- Not at all concerned

Concern about Child's Health

- Extremely concerned
- Somewhat concerned
- Not at all concerned

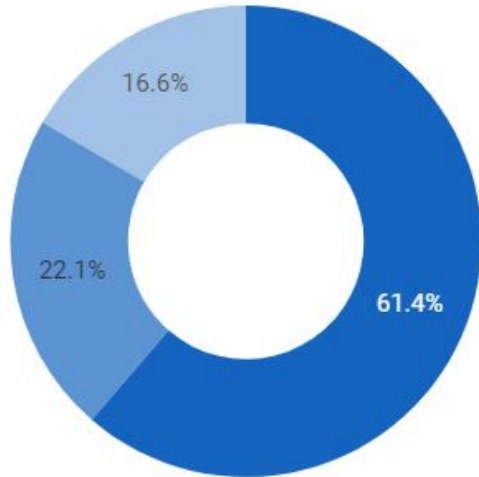

Concern about Household's Health

- Extremely concerned
- Somewhat concerned
- Not at all concerned

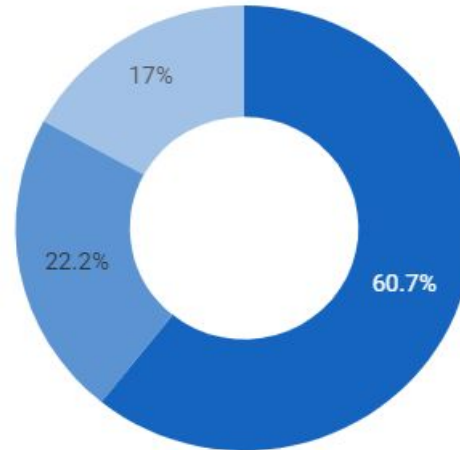

Concern about Community's Health

Parents: Sending children to in-person learning is an unnecessary risk

Risk to All Children

- Sending all children to in-person learning on September 8th is an unnecessary risk.
- Sending all children to in-person learning on September 8th is risky, but necessary.
- Sending all children to in-person learning on September 8th is safe.

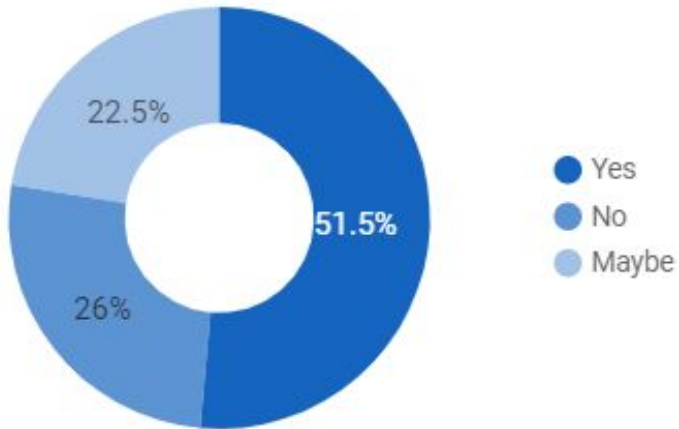

Risk to My Child

- Sending my child to in-person learning on September 8th is an unnecessary risk.
- Sending my child to in-person learning on September 8th is risky, but necessary.
- Sending my child to in-person learning on September 8th is safe.

Parents: Thinking about and taking action

	Thinking About It	Taken Action
Transferring my child to a school that guarantees in-person learning	13.5%	3.3%
Transferring my child to a school that guarantees remote learning	29.2%	10.3%
Homeschooling my child	34.2%	11.7%

Parents: Interested in long-term remote learning

Interest in Remote Learning at Child's School

Questions

